An Invitation to Attend Tomorrow’s Teachers Training

The Center for Future Educators at The College of New Jersey, The New Jersey Education Association, and the New Jersey Department of Education invite high school teachers to participate in a Tomorrow’s Teachers instructor training opportunity in June. Tomorrow’s Teachers, an elective course for high school juniors and seniors who aspire to become teachers, was developed by the Center for Education, Recruitment, Retention and Advancement (CERRA) in South Carolina. The Tomorrow’s Teachers course curriculum, which supports the importance of building our next generation of teachers, is utilized in 38 states. Interested high schools should register for the training by Friday, May 11, 2018 by completing the attached application.

During the two-day training in June, attendees will be introduced to the 11th edition of Tomorrow’s Teachers, which will focus on experiencing learning, the profession, and the classroom. Each of the program’s 40 rigorous standards have been aligned and cross-walked with the new standards set forth by the Association of Teacher Educators, Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation, the Interstate Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium, and the National Board of Professional Teaching Standards. Tomorrow’s Teachers is taught for a minimum of one class period a day for a year, or the equivalent of that amount of time in contact hours. A variety of hands-on activities and a strong emphasis on observations and field experiences are required. The program also focuses on teaching in critical-shortage subject areas.

Almost 160 New Jersey instructors have participated in the Tomorrow’s Teachers training since 2007.

Additionally, four New Jersey universities currently offer college credits to high school students who successfully complete the Tomorrow’s Teachers course elective: Fairleigh Dickinson University, Rider University, Richard Stockton University and Kean University. Schools that offer dual credits can be found on the Center for Future Educators website.

Up to 35 high school instructors are able to participate in the June Tomorrow’s Teachers training. Training, which will be conducted by a certified CERRA instructor with the support of a highly experienced New Jersey Tomorrow’s Teacher instructor, will take place as follows:

Rider University, Lawrenceville, NJ
- Day 1 - Wednesday, June 27, 9:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.
- Day 2 - Thursday, June 28, 9:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

The trainings are open to all New Jersey public high schools. Registration will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Spaces fill-up quickly, so early registration is recommended.
The cost for the Tomorrow’s Teachers 11th edition course curriculum is $560, to be paid by each participating high school. Invoices for this curriculum will be sent directly to each school district. Please note that the Tomorrow’s Teachers curriculum may not be implemented at a high school unless training has been completed by certified CERRA course instructor(s).

The Tomorrow’s Teachers June training will be provided at no cost to participants. A complimentary lunch will be provided. Funding for this training is being provided by the New Jersey Education Association.

Registration
